

NovoPayment provides financial institutions and other organizations with the know-how and bank-grade tools they need to overcome payment bottlenecks and capture new transactional opportunities.

The company's offerings include services to help clients define the right technical and financial models and a robust, multi-country, multi-currency platform able to address a full range of back-office and front-end payment needs including mobile payments and wallets.

Founded in 2004 with origins in banking, NovoPayment delivers highly integrated and interconnected, cloud-based solutions that enable new payment ecosystems and break payment barriers while meeting today's rising compliance and security requirements.
